

1.07. What is the essence of the "Perfect Mind of Man"

Author: Makov B.V.

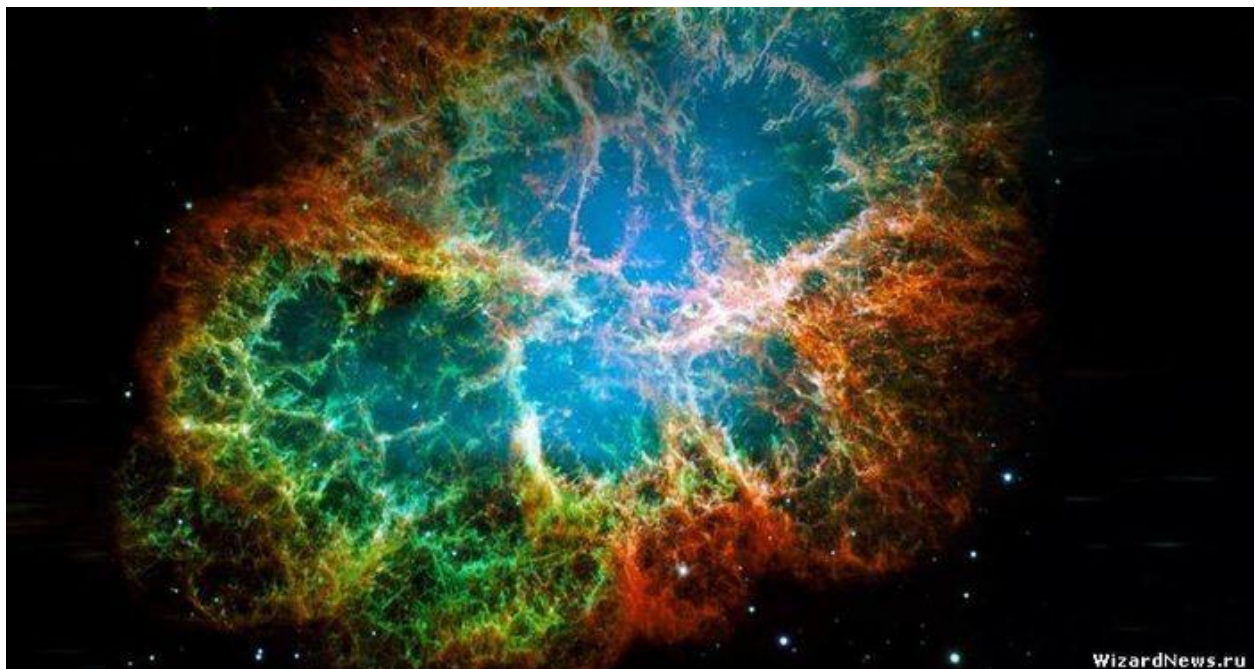

Author: Research Institute Center for Proactive Strategies www.salvatorem.ru

Author: Makov Boris Viktorovich (a series of materials about Consciousness, Mind, Matter and some essence of today's Life)

The life of people, like the life of the Cluster model of the Earth and all that exists on it and in it, is a small-scale hypostasis of the Life of the Universe. It is strictly oriented by the controlled framework of the general Vector of the Goal of phenomena, actions and events that irreversibly and expediently result from their incarnation in the tact of event time in each specific space of the Universe.

Human judgments about the life of the Universe are mostly limited by their verbal and other pictorial cacophony, both among Orthodox philosophizing "lyricists" in all their "creative" variety, and among Orthodox materialists of the past. Some of their philosophizing creation about life beyond the Earth, according to traditional habit, unrestrainedly sought to show off a word or other demonstrative form, focusing more often on the fact that from everything said or shown (depicted), at least some benefit can be sifted out later, more often in personal interests. Others, as some Observers (measurers, by their definition) of the reality they "felt" (without their sensations, neither matter nor anything happening to it exists), were limited by the scale of their observations and sensations, and therefore by the depth of knowledge of nature (i.e. physics, translated from ancient Greek). Our judgments, limited by the specifics of the above topic, do not affect the participation of specialists from religious denominations for a number of reasons, including their rigid Orthodox approach, based on the dogma of the non-independence of the human mind and doubt of its existence in general. This moment is not a time when it can be spent aimlessly, knowing in advance the results of such spending. And the life of the Universe is a surprisingly complex variety of target and functional existence of energies! By its origin, It (life) is not oriented relative to any accidents, and its goal is not only to "produce" a certain "likeness" and survive in the "food chain" (including the energy "food" of certain secret "Black holes"), as the same Orthodox scientific firmament claims, based on the views of the "animal" basis. Life is not "probable" or "relative," as the materialists of the past have been forcing their claims on us for centuries.

The life of the Universe is expressed by a target certainty about its future existence with all its resulting reality, created through controlled performing processes at any point in micro and macro space; it is comprehensive, i.e. it is measured and self-controlled by its unique dimension for this point in space; it is endowed with an individual and associated program (vector) entity for acquiring (or through it) appropriate (set) harmonious states of matter of electric and magnetic fields, as the beginning of the beginnings of its constructive non-random (target, functional) arrangement of the "Created World". It is embodied through a controlled target civilizational development, focused on finding harmony and perfection of the states of matter as a whole at each specific stage of event time.

It is with the help of such a new, more perfect methodological approach and understanding of the very essence of life that the entire irreversible inexpediency of the further vicious existence of all current communities of people on Earth is explained, both in the constructive arrangement of all spheres of their coexistence, and in the goal-oriented aspiration of all their well-equipped existence, based solely on violence and parasitism. This is a real proof of the fact of the earlier violent intervention from outside in the processes of true civilizational development of the Earth model as a whole. But at this logical moment, it is more appropriate for us to make judgments about the true light and its future! We have been allowed to inform about the following postulated condition for gaining knowledge of the essence of life, namely:

To gain knowledge of the truth about the essence and existence of Life within the framework of the development of Civilizations of Reasonable orientation means to gain knowledge of the truth about Consciousness, Mind and Matter!!!

The knowledge of this gradually improving triptych of truths (which is precisely the apophatically hidden Trinity) is the basis of the entire worldview of the "Created World". This, first of all, will allow us to gain and express a meaningful perception and clarity of Faith in the specific true role and place of Man and Humanity on Earth and beyond within the general Hierarchy of developing Civilizations of Intelligent orientation, as well as in the gradual processes of embodied civilizational development, both on our planet and outside it.

For the newly formed living space on Earth, this will be a higher-level Faith based on the truth about a really conscious resulting reality, and not the mythically intimidating and oppressively inexplicable dogma of the past about something vague and punishing the Supreme, whose portrait - sculptural existence, as if imputed from the outside (the interventional System). This new Faith is known in the process of recreating Man and giving him the truth about the "Created World". On the part of the recreating Person - it is pure awareness of their place and role in the general real universe and the existence of matter and energy, completely isolated from the vague legend of unreal reality, imputed earlier by the interventionists.

The new Faith is spiritually sensitive to the true Creator, in contrast to the previous humiliatingly worshipful state of the entire spiritual essence of people in front of something "indefinite and not realized by them", before "which" (since his name has not yet been determined) on the part of self-appointed earthly governors, a depressive state of fear and threats about the constantly impending punishment from a certain "Uncertainty" from the outside were administratively whipped up.

The true Creator in each recreated Person, as the Creator, takes care of the acquisition of his Consciousness, the development of his Mind, and so on.

It controls the entire existence of energies, forming not random and probable states of its matter, but specific functional-target and expediently necessary states for the entire civilizational development as a whole. In this regard, on the part of each individual integrated into the future, through and with the help of his conscious self-control in all his affairs of worldly and spiritual harmonious existence, the new Faith is responsible for the results of the embodiment of his individual and associated functional endowment as a Man of the Earth.

With the spiritual development of a higher level for each individual and Humanity as a whole, He is more miraculous through creative activity in the name of Good for the sake of all its equals, observing the obligatory condition of true development through the patronage of the more developed level of every entity (or state of matter and energy) over the less developed state. It does not require the humiliating presence of artificially imputed social inequality in all areas and states of the spiritual and worldly spheres, for before the Creator all are one, since all are responsibly equal in all their being and intelligent development.

As a result, from gaining new knowledge of the triptych of truth (Consciousness, Mind, Matter) and the corresponding new state of Belief of a higher level all together, this will form another expedient arrangement of all individual and collegial performing actions in the harmony of expedient events, which, in turn, another, not rejected civilizational development of the life of the planet and society, aimed at a Reasonable orientation and embodied, in strict accordance with the controlled tact of event time, imputed from Above from the true state of control by the Creator. From the knowledge of such a triune truth (Consciousness, Mind, Matter), people were completely isolated for almost 18,000 years, which is additional evidence of the existence of the very fact of earlier intervention from outside relative to the Earth. This prohibition in the knowledge of this triptych of truths has been dispelled since 2011.04.24 (change of System power). Let's return to the essence of the judgments of the declared thematic framework.

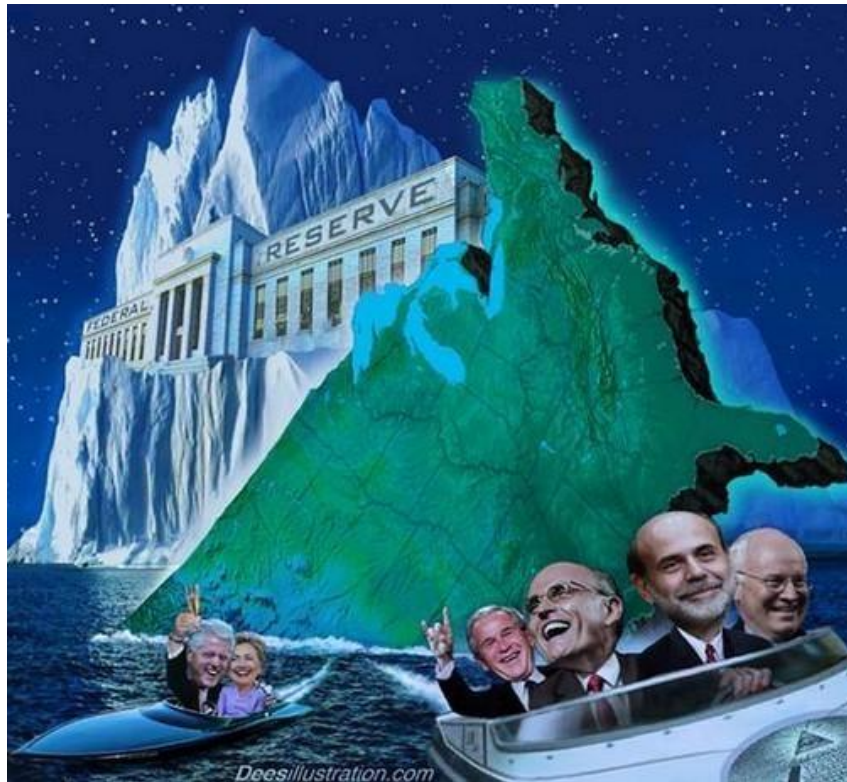

The famous mathematician, physicist and philosopher Kurt Friedrich Gödel, along with other scientific problems to be solved, conducted research into the essence of reason and at the end of his practical activity (the beginning of the 80s of the last century) came to a rather interesting conclusion, which, to the surprise of materialists, was mainly recognized in the general scientific community, namely: "Mind is something outside the brain." We fully agree with this final and profoundly fair conclusion. But what is the true essence of what has been said has remained to this day a mystery and an unsolved problem, and not only for materialists.

Moreover, in the course of our judgments about Consciousness and Reason, we have repeatedly stipulated that only a Man is granted the opportunity to "acquire a contact state of his Mind with Mind of a higher order and level of development" on the requesting initiative on his part (if he has such an ability to request). What did we fit into the meaning of this and other stated postulates about the essence of Consciousness and Reason? The eventful time has come, which allows us to touch more deeply on those previous judgments. When discussing the materials of the theory of "the Basis of the Formation of Humanity", oppositional materialists who defend their dogmatic interests of orthodox ossified physics, medicine, philosophy, and so on, naturally have the right to evaluate our views as idealism.

But only our "idealism" has a clearly defined MATERIALISTIC basis! And we are in this "materialistic idealism", as they did not see the next stage of development of knowledge (idealism-materialism-materialistic idealism on the basis of energy-informational dialectics) we are far from alone, because representatives of quantum physics and mechanics are still struggling and with difficulty, but they are beginning to raise their heads more boldly and express their vital importance. Biologists, chemists, geneticists, astronomers and many other creators are catching up in the knowledge of nature in all its complex of existence!

It is orthodox materialism itself that has almost completely lost its former vital relevance, has acquired a consumer state of parasitism and extreme egoism on most problematic issues of philosophy and physics (the science of nature), has replaced the bestowed values of Man's creative work with the values of the parasitic social violence of a minority over the prevailing majority, not only in justifying the entire way of life of people, but also in science.

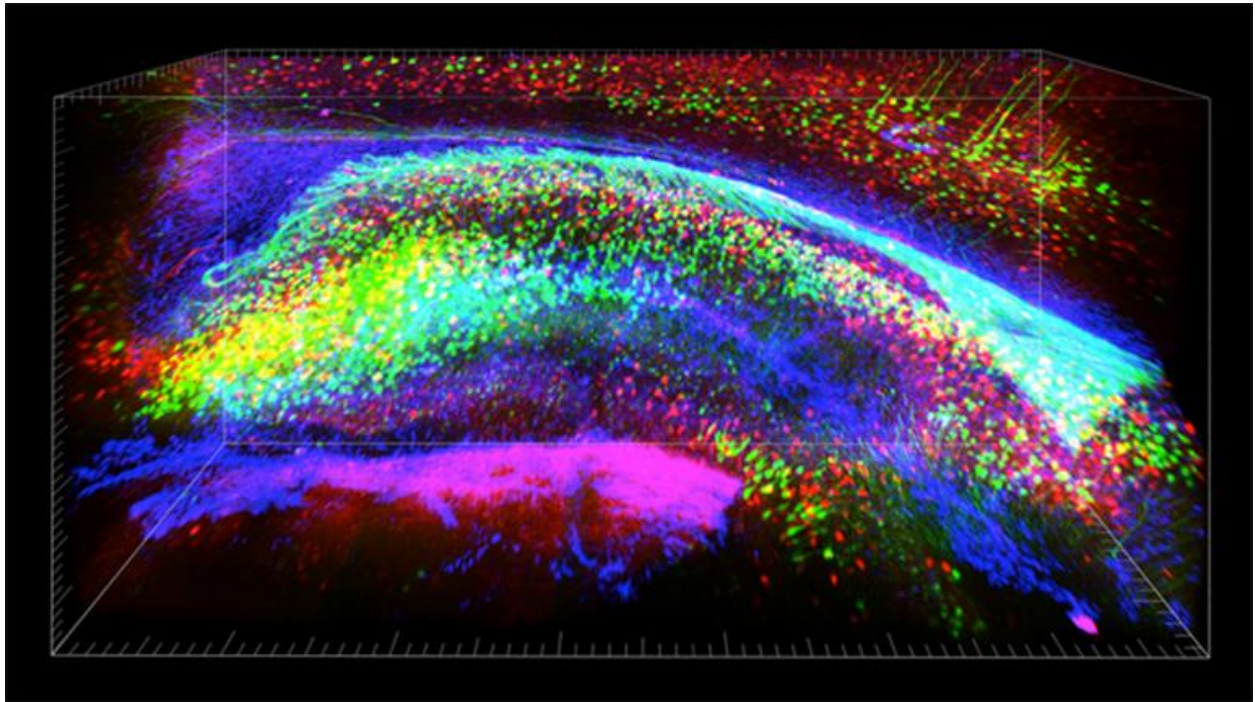

But the modern sense of new demands from the developing understanding of the truth, even about the essence of matter, puts forward other vital requirements that differ from the previous framework of its Leninist definition, as a kind of indestructible symbol of knowledge in the past. The "Barrier of containment" imposed by materialists in knowledge has now been successfully overcome by advanced Russian scientists!

This scientific and historical barrier transition in knowledge was symbolized by a scientific discovery (2010 - 2013) made by the Russian physicist A.A. Luchin, an employee and scientific partner of the NII NCC, who theoretically substantiated and empirically confirmed the divisibility of the electron (almost 300-year-old irrefutable dogma collapsed, the Swiss Collider can be disassembled as unnecessary) and formulated a different methodological view of the fundamental principles of the construction of the World: the presence of the primary matter of all that exists, i.e. matter of electric and magnetic fields.

Orthodox materialism, relying on the departing ossified dogmas, not only does not see, but also does not have time to realize a different, i.e., more perfect meaning of the true essence of matter. They don't see matter exactly where it underlies everything! This is where their current scientific and life inadequacy is hidden, forcing them to demonstrate their last efforts through administrative violence to maintain their former "leadership" in forming the basic foundations for the now rapidly changing worldview.

For the same reason, and also for the sake of preserving their position of power, they showed additional violence in the environment of developing science without them, namely: on behalf of the state, a certain Commission was organized "to combat pseudoscience" (in previous historical stages this was called the Inquisition). But true civilizational development, especially in the sphere of knowledge, cannot be held back by any commissions!

For example, some advanced scientists (such as Stewart Hameroff, Roger Penrose) can already make bold judgments about some of the essence of "the Other World" from the point of view of specialists from quantum physics and mechanics, studying the reaction processes of various functions and parts of the human brain that occur in it and beyond. So far, it looks a bit esoteric, but this is for now. There are many other examples, but this is not the point of our judgments.

How to put in a single clear picture of the current and future concept of a "Created World", using the previously transmitted knowledge from the sages of the esoteric or representatives of various religious confessions, given the fundamental definitions in the field of cognition and private opinions of many scientists who themselves are now not a unified methodological bases of knowledge of the natural world as such? Perhaps such a code should somehow bring us all closer to the truth, and there is probably no other way. And the continuation of the state of extreme egoism with attempts to put forward the primacy of any of the three directions of knowledge will continue to keep the development of civilization in a dead end. But what can be such a link in this associated contradictory code? Such a link is represented by the revealed truths about the Matter of energies, the role and place of Consciousness of the intelligent entity and Mind, including Man!

On our part, we are taking some proactive initiative in providing materials for this "link".

Publications of open research materials about the above will be carried out on our Site in the form of articles, brochures, possibly interactive conferences and duplicated on the sites of the "Russian Scientific and Technical Society".

Closed materials can be provided for discussion only at specialized scientific closed conferences at the Research Institute of the NCC.

As such, in the beginning we offer our admirers to see the open information part of some of the publications of the Doctors of Sciences, Professor A.A. Luchin, who by his works managed to destroy many of the old dogmas of orthodox physics and, according to RANS represented by Doctor of Technical Sciences, Professor A.A. Nikitina, this is a triumph of human thought.

Materials of A.A. Luchin published in the section OTHER - "Free creativity of our scientists".