

Kailas - Swastika Mountain

The management of the world is under the sign of the swastika

Reference

Kailas is a mountain about 6,700 meters high, from which the four main rivers of Tibet, India and Nepal originate (Indus, Sutlej, Brahmaputra and Karnali). Mount Kailas -- still considered unconquered. The sacred Mount Kailas could be called the Olympus of Central Asia. According to the Hindu tradition, Kailash is inhabited by one of the gods who, along with Brahma and Vishnu, belong to the supreme triad ("trimurti") - the formidable Shiva, who maintains order in the universe with his dance "tandava".

In addition to the abode of Shiva or Buddha, on the top of Mount Kailas, there is an entrance to the mysterious country of Shambhala. If you go around the mountain on a certain route, you can get absolution of all sins, if you don't go to Hell 13 times during the next five hundred rebirths, and you get the right to go around Kailas on another route... Having done this 108 times, you will break out of the circle of rebirth and achieve the enlightenment of the Buddha. A small, but very important nuance - if you do all this to satisfy your own ambitions - it is to no avail and Kailas will take revenge on you.

The main Pyramid of Tibet - Mount Kailas has a layered structure, different from the surrounding ordinary mountains.

"In Tibetan texts it is written that Shambhala is a spiritual country and is located in the northwest of Kailas. It is difficult for me to reason on this topic from a scientific point of view. But I can absolutely affirmatively say that the Kailas complex is directly related to life on Earth; when we made a schematic map of the "City of the Gods" consisting of pyramids and stone mirrors, we were very surprised - the diagram turned out to be similar to the spatial structure of DNA molecules."

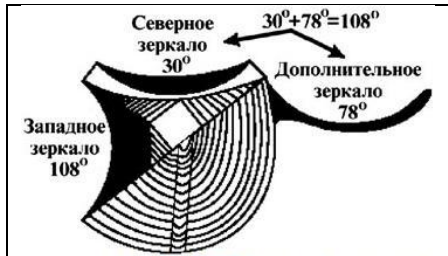

Professor Ernst Muldashev

The Mysterious City of the Gods

It was a long time ago. The sons possessed the amazing power of the five elements, with which they built a giant city. It was in it, according to Eastern religions, that the North Pole was located before the Flood. In many eastern countries, Mount Kailas is considered the holiest place on planet Earth. It and the surrounding Kailas mountains were built with the help of the mighty power of the five elements: air, water, earth, wind and fire.

In Tibet, this force is considered as the psychic energy of the Universe, as something inaccessible and unattainable for comprehension by the human mind! And here, at an altitude of 5680 meters, there is the famous "Valley of Death," you can only pass through it by a sacred road. If you get off the road, you will get into the zone of tantric power. And stone mirrors so change the course of time for those people who got there that in a matter of years they turned into old men.

Stone mirrors of Mount Kailas

These unique stone structures have a smooth or concave surface. The greatest mystery for science is the ability of the stone mirrors of Kailas to change time. "Time" is an energy capable of concentrating and spreading.

Diagram of the main Pyramid of the Tibetan complex - Mount Kailas (top view). Three giant stone mirrors are shown.

An example of the temporary effect of Tibetan mirrors is the mysterious death of four climbers who left the sacred road during the expedition, and after returning aged and died in one year.

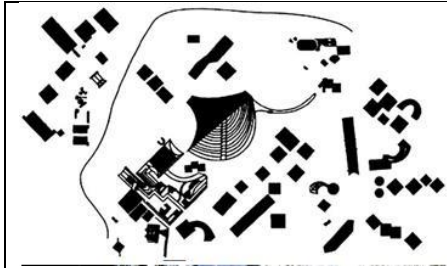

Западное зеркало 108°/Western mirror 108°

Северное зеркало 30°/Northern mirror 30°

дополнительное зеркало 78°/Additional mirror 78°

Medical professionals could not determine the cause of their death. All stone mirrors have different shapes and sizes. One of them, which has a height of 800m, is called the "Stone Palace of Happiness".

It is believed that it is a place of transition to other parallel worlds. The largest "mirrors" are the flat slopes of the western and northern sides of the main pyramid of Kailas, they have a clearly concave shape. The height of each of them is 1800m. Scientists claim that such huge planes have the ability to transfer energy that accumulates in the pyramids themselves, connecting it with the flows of other energy forces of the Universe.

Layout of the Kailash Pyramid Complex in Tibet

The Mirrors of Kailash and the Bible

John the Theologian received a revelation two thousand years ago on the island of Patmos that concave mirrors are capable of "stretching" or "squeezing" time. However, if he heard and gave us the information encrypted in the parable, and Muldashev only saw and described the stone mirrors of Tibet, then Academician Kozyrev made a mirror that the passage of time... changes.

He considered time not an abstract concept, but a concrete energy capable of either concentrating (then time is "compressed") or spreading (then time "stretches"). The most striking is the fact that people who have been inside Kozyrev's mirrors clearly felt dizzy, fear, and were transported back to their childhood.

This is because they were literally immersed in the energy called time. And under the influence of this energy, they felt changes in themselves and in the perception of the world. At the same time, Kozyrev's mirrors did not exceed a height of two to three meters. And the stone mirrors of Kailas, according to Muldashev, are almost the size of a two-kilometer mountain.

We are talking, of course, about the largest stone mirrors. Placed in a certain way in relation to each other, they create the desired effect of a "time machine," which is able to transfer the initiate not only to different time epochs, but also to other worlds. By the way, the pyramids of Egypt were once covered with tiles sparkling in the sun, which were also, in fact, mirrors. It must be said that in ancient times, almost all buildings having a pyramidal shape were equipped with many mirrors. Our distant ancestors knew a lot about handling this unique energy, which we call time.

By the way, the famous clairvoyant and prophet of the XX century Edgar Cayce saw a huge mirror on the ocean floor near the Bermuda Triangle, which, according to him, is able to bend time space.

Addendum to the reference (unknown beginning).

Kailas, Tibet, swastika Mountain, or Yundrung-Gutseg - "nine-story swastika mountain".

Latitude: 30.4483777059657 N; Longitude: 81.3129043579102 E.

Height (h)= 6700 m.

The rivers of India - Ganges, Brahmaputra, Indus, Kali Gandaki - originate from the slopes of the mountain, next to the high-altitude lake Manasarovar.

One of the 32 main mystical places on Earth, where mystical radiations come from.

The legendary black stone from Orion is stored in the cave labyrinths of Kailas.

Number 108:

-- The sum of the angles of the western and complementary mirrors
-- The number of prayer rosaries of the Lamas.
-- If you go around Kailas 108 times (3-4 years - a circumambulation of the mountain is 60 km), you are a saint

-- Number of small pyramids around Kailas.

-- Number of axes of symmetry (18) multiplied by the number of translations (6) = 108!

The height of the concave mirror is 800 m.

The main western mirror of Kailas is directed exactly at the Egyptian pyramids, and the two "northern" mirrors are directed at the Mexican ones.

The Egyptian sphinx looks at Kailash.

The axis drawn from Kailash to the opposite side of the globe points to Easter Island.

Connecting the meridians of Kailash with the Egyptian pyramids, we will go to Easter Island.

The distance from Kailash to the Egyptian Pyramids = 1/4 of the meridian line of Kailash - Easter Island.

If you connect Easter Island with the Mexican pyramids, then the continuation of this line goes to Kailas. Distance Easter Island - Mexican pyramids = 1/4 of the meridian line of Easter Island - Kailas.

Distances from Easter Island to the Mexican pyramids and Kailash to the Egyptian pyramids are the same.

If you connect the Egyptian and Mexican pyramids with a line, then this "quarter" of the globe is divided into 2 absolutely equal triangles.

If you connect the Kailas line with the Stonehenge Monument (England, South Wales), then the continuation of this line leads to Easter Island, and the Kailas - Stonehenge distance is 1/3 of the Kailas meridian line - Easter Island.

This line divides the specified quarter of the globe in half.

If we put 1/3 of the distance from Eastern Island on this line, Easter, then (approximately):

- Bermuda - Kailash = 6714 km,
- Kailash - Stonehenge = 6714 km,
- Bermuda - Stonehenge = 6714 km,
- Bermuda - Easter Island = 6714 km,
- Kailas - North Pole = 6714 km.

Note: the average radius of the Earth = 6371 km, the upper limit of the Earth's atmosphere layer, in which the grid is supported at 16 octave with a .44444 matrix, is 340- 345 km (from sea level).

Distances are given conditionally. Actual distances are different. All node terminals are connected to each other and the time of transmission and reception of information does not depend on the distance between them. This is achieved by phasing and tuning the mantissa (with or without delay).

The Stonehenge complex is a control complex that monitors the state of the ocean surface, while calibrating the average radius of the Earth relative to gravity at 63 octave. At the same time:  $6371 + 340 (345) = 6711 (6716)$ .

This is the range of the Earth's Life Support Systems.

The rest of the magical places and, accordingly, the metric ratios - see "magic of holy places". We especially note that each "holy place" has an appropriate provision, a form for quite specific purposes.

Kailas functions.

Kailas is a huge underground Complex containing 4828 pyramids, 1244 of which are floating geometry pyramids. The depth of occurrence is up to 12880 meters. The complex is served by materialized biostructures of genotype 333. The Kailas complex was created together with the Earth.

Kailas carries a double load:

- as a Control System for all biostructures on Earth, for this it has a memory archive, a program archive and an archive of all codes for communication with any System on Earth;
- As a Complex of Management and control of all biostructures.

The inclusion of Kailas as a Control Complex is performed every Tuesday at 03:14:45 (Moscow time, summer time), and during the day all information is not only collected and processed, but adjustments are made according to this information regarding Program functions (as a rule, a video is recorded, which housewives call sleep).

Kailas has a connection with all structures on Earth, the range of current octaves is 16 - 128, transitional octaves are 12 - 224, the complete System has a range of 12 - 512 octaves. By the way, 512 is the Land code.

An amazing coincidence:

the area of continents and islands = 149.1 million km<sup>2</sup>, the area of oceans = 361.1 million km<sup>2</sup>, the amount = 510.2 million km<sup>2</sup>.

The pyramids of the Kailas Complex are turned on if it is necessary to make a Program correction in the atmospheric grids from -4400 meters to +12400 meters, while it is dangerous to be at Kailas - you can get the "Tajik version" - an old man at 3 years old. Everyone gets the necessary information from the grid of the atmosphere, and climbing the mountain is not necessary at all. A note for oil workers - if you try to drill something in the area of the Kailas Complex, you will get a slap in the face. First, the brain will be removed, and then the 63 octave (shirt) will be removed.

The Kailas complex does not work autonomously. At the same time, all subordinate Control Systems (484 in total), the Main Computing Center (Ireland), the coordinator (Easter Island), the Atmospheric Brain Control Complex (Greenland), the Time Synchronization System (Stonehenge), the archive of satellite messages (the Sphinx at the Pyramid of Cheops) are switched on. If a power set is required before switching on, the Bermuda Complex is turned on. Kailas has everything necessary for autonomous operation in all three material spaces - octaves 16 - 64 (current), 132 - 196 (main), 248 - 484 (when working with objects, or UFOs).