

Salvation of the Saviors (series 52-369) Lie and point of view...

The truth is the same for everyone, but everyone has their own lies.

I wrote this article at the beginning of 2016. But in today's world, in my opinion, what is stated is more relevant than it was then. That's how it should be. At that time, we did NOT QUITE correctly understand the processes that were gaining momentum and which brought us to today, making us exactly what WE ARE now. I will supplement what I have written from today's perspective, with what, in my opinion, is relevant today and explains a lot.

Let's start with a simple question - why is the painting by French artist Jean Leon Jerome called "Truth coming out of the Well"? One of the legends tells how one day Truth and Lie met. Lie greeted the Truth by saying, "What a good day today is!" The truth looked back and thought: "It's a really good day." They walked until they came to a well with water. Lie turned to Truth and dipped a hand into the water. "Nice warm water," she said, "if you would like, we can swim together. Truth distrustfully lowered her hand. But the water was really pleasant. And they for a while they SWAM TOGETHER.... When all of a sudden, Lie came out of the well, wearing the clothes of Truth, and disappeared... Truth, upset, angry, came out of the well completely undressed (as in the picture), trying to find Lie to get her clothes back, but the world, which saw her naked, SHYLY TURNED AWAY. As a result, poor Truth, ashamed, returned to the well and disappeared there forever. Since then, Lies have been traveling the world dressed as the Truth. And everyone is satisfied with the existing order. And the world DOES NOT WANT to see the naked truth or the bare Truth...

Lies and a point of view - how to distinguish one from the other? It's very simple. A point of view is when a Person says what he thinks. And when he thinks one thing and says another, it's a lie. There is another distinctive feature of lying – self-interest: a liar does NOT JUST say what he thinks, but benefits from it. I have no doubt that many readers have seen this firsthand. But for this topic, this feature is secondary compared to sincerity.

A point of view can reflect reality more or less correctly. And if it is sincere, then calling its bearer a LIAR - IMPOSSIBLE. A person who is sure that doubling-two = five is not a liar. A fool, but NOT A LIAR. He becomes a liar when he says that two and two make five, knowing that two and two make four. And then the question arises, does the one who writes and distributes information, both on the Internet and verbally, have the right to lie? Of course, he has the right to his point of view (his own) – within the limits, naturally, in which his point of view is PUBLICLY SAFE: for example, he has the right to say and write whatever comes to his mind, including rumors and speculations born in his head. But society, UNLESS it is OBSESSED with "freedom of speech" (and today this is exactly the case for the majority), should sharply limit his right to promote such a point of view. If his point of view is more or less safe for other people to understand, then he, of course, has the right to express it, but accompanying all this ONLY with his OWN assumptions, not supporting with quotations "pulled out" from the texts of significant authorities. But does he have the right to lie? Strangely enough (although, if you understand what is happening around us today), the points of view on this issue are divided. Many "writers" and, of course, "proliferating bloggers", fiercely defend their "right to lie." The purpose of the owners of social networks (including some platforms), which ALLOW CREATING groups of participants (listeners) to "transmit" information through them, is to form a certain picture of reality from readers–viewers-listeners, for the mostly part, it is far from adequate. In other words, to distort reality. To distort in one way or another, willingly or UNWILLINGLY (with complete misunderstanding), emphasizing one thing and leveling the other, forming positive assessments of some things and negative of others, and so on. And when the one who writes, nevertheless, realizes that he is being used as a "crooked mirror", - he faces a choice: to distort or not to distort. Moreover, the choice "not to distort", practically, inevitably leads to the answer of the question - why NOT DISTORT? And this is already the beginning of the desire to learn. Growing above his former point of view (and this is the never-ending process of personal growth), the "writer" (participant in the networks) discovers that his like-minded people (many, I do not say all) also distort reality.

Это всегда было тайной для меня: как люди могут уважать себя, унижая таких же, как они сами.

(Махатма Ганди)

*It has always been a mystery to me: how people can respect themselves by humiliating those like themselves.
(Mahatma Gandhi)*

SUCH "believers" are priceless: they DON'T even have to lie; they sincerely bring the lies of the customer to the reader-viewer-listener (and not only the creators of social networks). But this is the highest level. And the skill that arises from the habit of lying becomes something like keyboard proficiency or familiarity with grammar. And, naturally, there is something to protect here. Of course, it is good when one defends the right WITHOUT LYING – sincerely believing in the "writing individual's" right to lie.

Каждый человек, появляющийся в нашей жизни – учитель! Кто-то учит нас быть сильнее, кто-то – мудрее, кто-то учит прощать, кто-то – быть счастливым и радоваться каждому дню. Кто-то вовсе нас не учит – просто ломает нас, но и от этого мы получаем опыт. Цени каждого человека, даже если он появился на мгновение. Ведь если он появился, то это уже неспроста!

Every person who gets involved in our life is a teacher! Someone teaches us to be stronger, someone – wiser, someone teaches us to forgive, someone – to be happy and to rejoice every day. Someone doesn't teach us anything – they just break us, but we get experience from this too. Appreciate every person, even if they appeared for a moment. After all, if he appeared, then it's not for nothing!

Many people already understand quite well that we are all drowning in lies, that lies are the MOST TERRIBLE thing in our lives, because everything else terrible is rooted in it. Theft is built on lies, wars justify lies, and so on. And at the same time, we categorically DO NOT WANT to forbid ourselves from lying - not someone "from above", not "foes", BUT OURSELVES. We convinced ourselves, or rather, allowed ourselves to be convinced that it is impossible to distinguish a point of view from a lie, in the sense that "someone else's soul is dark, and who knows what he really thinks."

In itself, this point of view is absurd: our whole daily life teaches us to easily detect lies. Otherwise, we would be naive fools, easily deceived by anyone. But we are not like that at all in our PERSONAL AFFAIRS. However, when it comes to COMMON AFFAIRS - public, state or club matters (which, for example, happen daily in the Clubs of "New Knowledge", created precisely for the truthfulness of this Knowledge) – we prefer to be just such fools, we prefer to be deceived. And therefore, we staunchly defend the right of deceivers to "earn" their bread by deception. And do you know why? Because we, by virtue of our automatism, FEAR RESPONSIBILITY. It is much easier to say later: "Oh, how I was deceived!" than to see the real truth today, because understanding the truth will entail the need to act, and this is exactly what we DO NOT WANT. Action will destroy, even if its illusion, some semblance in our lives. And we don't want that. We prefer to wait for it to COLLAPSE (transform, dissolve) on its OWN, NOT wanting to understand that it is better to dismantle the rotten "roof" than to wait until "roof" collapses on your head.

It's like a generalization in thought. And here is a specific "small example" in the conclusions reached by researchers from the American University of Notre Dame. If you want to significantly improve your health, STOP LYING. Those who tell lies often complain of feeling unwell. American psychologists (I draw the attention of readers) conducted a study in 2014, during which they asked a group of people to REDUCE the NUMBER of daily lies. It turned out that the mental state of the subjects already improved in the first week of the experiment, and their complaints about health problems decreased threefold. Anita Kelly, a professor of psychology at the University of Notre Dame, and her colleagues conducted an experiment during which they observed two groups of people for TEN WEEKS. The experts asked the first group to reduce the number of daily lies, and the lifestyle of the participants from the second group, the control group, remained the same. The researchers tried to find a connection between spoken lies and emotional as well as physical well-being. "We found that subjects could purposefully lie less and as a result, their well-being improved. Our data show that American adults lie 11 times a week on average," said Dr. Anita Kelly. Scientists studied 110 people aged 18 to 71 years, 35% of whom were adults and 65% were students, as part of an experiment called "The Science of Truth." All participants came to the laboratory weekly, where specialists took health indicators, and also monitored the fulfillment of experimental conditions using a lie detector. As a result, those subjects who began to LIE LESS about trifles, for example, inventing worthy excuses for being late for work, began to feel better at the end of the first week of the experiment. Their complaints about physical ailments such as headaches or sore throats decreased threefold, and they suffered from melancholy four times less often. Another positive effect of the experiment was the IMPROVEMENT OF RELATIONSHIPS of the subjects - both on the "personal front" and at work. The subjects noted that they learned to tell the truth about their achievements, WITHOUT EXAGGERATING the result, and also to answer truthfully difficult questions that they previously preferred to ignore.

From my point of view (and especially if you look at all of the above, from the angle of the task being solved today – "stop old age"), the results of the experiment are logical, since LYING CREATES an overstrain on an emotional level, which affects the expansion of opportunities in the human brain. A person needs to keep REAL AND IMAGINARY plans in his head, try not to give himself away, and this is a waste of additional energy that exhausts and tires. Another serious point is the "work" of conscience. In the personality of each person there are "normative structures" (for simplicity, let's call them that) that take shape from the first moments of life and they happen imperceptibly. We, within the framework of the information we receive, get used to order, understand what is right and what is not. And when we step back from these attitudes, EVERYONE UNDERSTANDS that lying is bad, then we feel guilty, fear and discomfort. Even a SMALL LIE increases anxiety and internal conflict with oneself and with significant people. But the main reason for the improvement in physical condition lies much deeper. The fact is that the desire to refrain from lying requires reinforcement — setting some kind of super task, updating our understanding of ourselves and our capabilities. This in turn INCREASES the MEANINGFULNESS of life and self-esteem. People feel refreshed, hence the surge of physical strength, and an increase in overall vitality. By deciding to LIE LESS, people approach the conversation more consciously and listen to themselves, learning to be aware of their desires and distinguish lies from the truth. That is why the results described above in the experiment showed that the subjects felt better: the stress level decreased, because you no longer had to remember who and what you lied to, and fear exposure. Well, those who DO NOT USE false excuses for small things (for example, why they were late for work, did not complete current tasks) DO NOT EXAGGERATE their achievements or talents, it is easier for them to build personal relationships and establish contacts in society. And this is very important today, based on everything that is happening before our eyes, because most, unfortunately, DO NOT even SUSPECT that lying not only complicates their lives, but also worsens their well-being. This is especially true in cases where lying is used at a doctor's appointment, where it is necessary to tell as truthfully as possible about the symptoms of the disease and the patient's lifestyle... But we will consider this later.

Many people, not only in Russia, but also around the World, say that there is a truth that can only be told through lies. I believe that the truth CANNOT use a lie as a crutch. Everyone has the same truth, but everyone has their own lies. It is typical for people to tell only the PART of the TRUTH that they consider appropriate, or the information that, in their opinion, the interlocutor wants to hear. The rest of the truth is being hidden. People can lie "to save themselves" or regularly come up with innocent lies that (as they believe) WILL NOT HARM anyone. But it still has a detrimental effect on self-esteem and relationships. Even a lie for salvation leaves a bitter aftertaste, because telling a lie, you will NEVER FEEL like a truly strong person, a person who is not afraid to say what is, and not what they want to hear. Make a Person face the Truth or tell the Truth, as soon as you see the back of his head, because speaking frankly does NOT MEAN "telling the truth." Frankness and Truth are like the bow and stern of a ship sailing out of the fog. In the beginning, FRANKNESS APPEARS, and only last of all the TRUTH is REVEALED to the eyes. The time interval between these two moments is directly proportional to the size of the "vessel". It's harder for a big one to swim out. Sometimes this happens after the observer's life has ended...

Here are simple rules that you can agree with, to the best of your understanding. I didn't come up with them, but I think they need to be thought about and reflected on....

Граница твоих прав (правила)

- Внимание к потребностям другого человека, понимание его интересов.
- Умение слушать другого человека.
- Уважение мнению другого человека, если даже его не разделяешь.
- Не должны говорить ложь, распространять сведения унижающие другого человека и нарушающие его права.

Boundary of your rights (rules)

- Attention to the needs of another person, understanding their interests.
- The ability to listen to another person.
- Respect the opinion of another person, even if you don't share it.
- Should not tell lies, spread information that humiliates another person and violates his rights.

Only those who have the courage to see everything as it is are truly truthful, because a false beginning DOES NOT LEAD to the right end. What is true in small things will always be confirmed in big things. Everything that is true in the large, will confirm its truth in the small. If nature has CREATED SOMETHING that you cannot possess to a greater extent than others, it is due to the influence of a mental force CALLED AN IDEA, which belongs to a person only as long as he keeps it to himself. But once it is announced, it becomes PUBLIC DOMAIN, and the one who gets it can no longer separate himself from it. Its peculiarity also lies in the fact that does not own a part of it, but owns it entirely. And the one who got YOUR IDEA from you, for example, perceives it himself, without belittling you. Not a shadow, but a glimmer of light it casts on you. It is today that ideas must be transmitted without hindrance from one to another throughout the globe for the moral and mutual instruction of man and the improvement of his condition. This is deliberately and favorably applied today, and is done THROUGH THE CS COMPLEXES, like fire, throughout space without reducing their density at any point, and like the air in which we breathe, move and have our physical existence and which CANNOT be limited or constitute exclusive property.

How to understand WHERE EVERYTHING I wrote above “entered” people from and most importantly – why “entered”, what “entered” for and when will it “come out”? A person has 95% of the brain’s CAPABILITIES BLOCKED, a division into CONSCIOUS (5%) and UNCONSCIOUS (95%) was made - this was done specifically to narrow the flow of perceived conscious information. This allowed the invaders to slowly transfer a person (with the help of “scientific” technologies) from an analog perception of the world to a discrete one, to REDUCE EVERYTHING to binary manifestations. Digital sound and image already almost completely satisfy a person. Food surrogates and harmful flavor additives DO NOT CAUSE rejection in most people (which indicates a successful narrowing of the flow of existential information).

If the invaders wanted to leave man as he is now, then they would have had to DIGITALIZE man's taste, touch, and sense of smell - but the invaders DID NOT NEED this. Man (as we understand what man is) was, as such, NOT NEEDED. They only needed a NEW "SHIRT", only a new human body of a certain 4XX genotype, where they could insert (transfer) their (arachnoid) brain. And this poultry farm of people would have been needed by the invaders only until they UNROLLED the mystery of the existence of the earthly cell. Moreover, all this research would have been carried out and developed by the hands of people themselves (by imputing this to them). But these plans of the invaders are already in the past. All that remains is to "clean up the garbage" and return to themselves their HUMAN APPEARANCE. The ability to DISTINGUISH LIES FROM TRUTH is just a small fraction of this "garbage" - but a significant fraction. This year is already loaded with a huge number of newly introduced program elements in the structure of managing the complex existence of the planet, especially recreating the true states of the energy balance of the Earth. The magnetic field of the planet begins to have a SIGNIFICANTLY LARGER mass and an unevenly increased density, orienting its value ALREADY TO the PREPARED changed picture of the functional-territorial, new endowment of geo-administrative subjects (including at state levels of scale).

Visually, this process is "presented" to us as completely inexplicable "natural disasters and phenomena" that NO hydrometeorological center can intelligibly explain. There is a serious correction of the conditions of controlled habitation on our planet, towards the TRUE PROGRAM STATE. Some of the physical parameters in the Atmosphere layers (especially in layer #3 from 0 meters to 1240 meters) and much more are changing significantly. Before our eyes, the general Socionic picture of society (the picture of cohabitation) of the entire planet is undergoing SIGNIFICANT CHANGES. The process of transition to a "Different path of Civilizational development" is underway. The starting element of this most difficult episode is the process of the FINAL DESTRUCTION of all three "Civilizational Lifestyles" previously created by the Ebrov System, especially the American image (triune fascism¹), the basis of which lies in all its manifestations. From the NOW IMPLEMENTED scenario of the executive program actions "Ukraine", the entire Anglo-American-European platform WILL NOT BE RELEASED from all the circumstances of the execution of program actions until the episode of the liquidation of the American triune fascism is basically ENDED. That is why everyone who secretly participated (I want to emphasize here - both here and abroad) "ran around" in panic, using the most favorite means of stupefying people - lies, in all aspects of understanding this term), but this will NOT HELP them. Russia, through people who have begun to wake up and understand the difference between lies and truth (especially, as you can already see - through the direct

¹ As a result of everything that is happening in the field of performance processes, by the beginning of 2000, three expressive directions of the management program of "fascism" had been fulfilled, as a real modern technology for managing performance actions that have the final goal of their completion, namely, to be the threshold of the stage of transition to a completely new control program of the old System - the "Golden Era".

These independently expressed trends are:

administrative and bureaucratic fascism;

financial fascism; national demographic fascism.

participants of the SMO) WILL DEFEND INDEPENDENTLY its function as a Leader, since it HAS ALREADY LED the rest of the peoples of the World along a different path of Civilizational development, which is the truth, no matter how sophisticated a lie those who still consider themselves "rulers" TRY to cover it up with. They understood perfectly well and still understand today that the Truth is dangerous.

The world has always been based on lies... The main thing is that this lie should be INTERESTING ENOUGH to be able to lead "narrow-minded" minds... And if at the same time you start proving to the crowd the real truth, refuting their "faith" in who knows what, you will be torn apart by the same crowd.

Yes, the new unwritten rules for Life in the new era, which have been talked about for a long time and which have been expected for a long time, are now ALREADY IN ACTION! They are not announced from high platforms, just as they do not say that water is wet and snow is cold. Because these are NATURAL RULES, like the law of Nature. They "work", they happen where suitable conditions are formed and exist for them. There ARE MORE and more suitable conditions. And for each individual person - this is a question of how to act in each case, how to live. How to live each choice. The world has divided. Divided into the outgoing and the advancing. And they are further and more and more definitely - diverging. And rushing from one side to the other is becoming more and more difficult for those who are STILL in doubt. And very expensive (in all respects, from material situation to mental strength). In real life, it's not as easy as in a picture with two objects. There are thousands of things and events around each of us, and we live them, move by them and through them, making choices every second. Choice after choice. Everything happens non-linearly. Yes, everything will be new in the new world, NOTHING from the old may be USEFUL, but the new DOES NOT COME all at once. Today we will say goodbye to one thing and accept a new one, tomorrow with another... That is why we need to open our eyes wider, improve our perception. The heart must be sensitive to the new, so as NOT to MISS the moments of loss and gain. I will show this moment of choice and transition to the new using a simple example, so that it is clear. Imagine figuratively such a simple situation that we are moving in a car, or a bicycle, or on skis on unstable terrain, where at any moment we can either fall through, or move forward a little more, to the NEXT MOMENT of choice. Being in the material world, we use material things on the way, like this car or skis. And at a certain moment, on the edge of the worlds, everything will become so unstable that it will be impossible to use the car or skis any longer. Another action or means will be needed, perhaps something still unknown, unexplored. WE NEED TO THROW AWAY THE OLD, because it can get in the way, drag us down into the abyss with its weight, or something else (I remind you - now we are simply imagining a situation, there can be thousands of different and unforeseen ones on the way to a new world in life). So, you need to understand and catch that very moment when you can still do something old, and at that point IT IS NO LONGER POSSIBLE – you need to part with it. There CANNOT be carelessness in unstable and uncertain things, it is dangerous for life. And why did I point out values here, like a car, etc., because we buy a lot of things for comfort. And it is hard for us to part with them, they are dear to us, since they have served us well for a long time and can still serve us. And not only with things, it is hard to part with habits, and with people, and with many other things. It is difficult to change ourselves for a new life, we are used to it and DO NOT WANT it any other way. The old world is not only somewhere behind us, the old world is still in many ways IN US. And we do not want to let it go, because for now everything that has been lived and acquired is there. That is why PEOPLE DON'T take a step into the new, although the path there, into this new, is ALREADY OPEN. We are forced to change and be ready to accept the new situation if we want to live, and not just exist until the end of the allotted resource. This is the moment of acceptance and adaptation, the moment of renewal, living and getting used to a NEW STATE, to a new world. And we are also forced to throw everything that pulls us back or to the bottom, like ballast. Regardless of whether it is expensive or inexpensive, a thing or someone close. Otherwise, life WILL NOT continue. It is good if everyone who is dear to us also changes, renews. But history and personal experience show that such an ideal situation DOES NOT EXIST, and it is simply necessary to live, renew, and move into a new era where everything will be different. Since this is what we "chose" (it just happened and we will not have another time) to be born at this time and live in this transitional period. Another difficulty is that both worlds – the new and the old – are here, everyone sees and hears both. Although the old one is more so, of course, because it is noisier and panics more, sensing the end. It has everything under control here, and it can exert pressure in different ways. Therefore, one should not be surprised by unexpected large and small events in the near future, attempts to manipulate the consciousness of the population, as well as tragedies, disasters and accidents, many of which happen because of people, because of THEIR UNWILLINGNESS to move on to a new one without kicking fate. And they will step forward only if everything collapses behind them! Each of us goes his own way, his own corridor. And we will go further, if WE DO NOT STUMBLE – which, as an unsteady passage or transition, I have already said above. The stronger someone holds on to the old world, the more opportunities the old has to put pressure on him. And for someone who is open to the new, who goes his own way, his own corridor, all these noises, attempts to manipulate him, will be like pictures in a movie: they are there, but they are past, they do not touch, do not intersect with him. To move on to a new life, to act according to the new rules, if not to fantasize, but to really see and understand them - this, of course, today is a bold act. An act that allows YOURSELF to gain a full understanding of the Truth and be able to REJECT LIES – once and for all. In the new world, everything is difficult in its own way, but at the same time easy, as if all obstacles disappear and space opens up for your own understanding, creativity and love. May it be easy for you too on your path into the unknown!
